ENEOS Renewable Energy Corporation

ENEOS Renewable Energy Signs Comprehensive Partnership Agreements with

Two Municipalities (Kitsuki City and Hiji Town) in Oita Prefecture to Promote Community Development and Enhance Public Services

ENEOS Renewable Energy Corporation (headquarters: Minato-ku, Tokyo; President and Chief Executive Officer: Kazuhiro Takeuchi; hereinafter “ERE”) has signed comprehensive partnership agreements with Kitsuki City, Oita Prefecture (Mayor: Satoru Nagamatsu; hereinafter “Kitsuki City”) and Hiji Town, Hayami District, Oita Prefecture (Mayor: Tetsuya Abe; hereinafter “Hiji Town”) to promote community development and enhance public services in these regions (hereinafter collectively referred to as “the Agreements”).

The Agreements aim to advance collaborative initiatives through close cooperation between ERE and local municipalities to make effective use of local resources. Areas of collaboration include the preservation of local traditional arts and culture, human resource development, and the promotion of carbon neutrality.

ERE develops and operates renewable energy power plants across Japan. In Kitsuki City, ERE started commercial operation of the JRE Oita Beppuwan Wind Farm in April 2025, while Hiji Town is the site of a substation that transmits the generated electricity to utility companies. ERE has been developing its power generation business with the understanding and cooperation of local residents, while actively engaging in a variety of community initiatives as an active member of the local community. To encompass and strengthen these local initiatives, ERE has entered into the Agreements with Kitsuki City and Hiji Town.

ERE will continue to support local communities and contribute to the realization of a sustainable, decarbonized society through its renewable energy power generation business and close cooperation with communities.
